What Is Caesarstone Quartz?

Quartz is one of nature's most abundant minerals and found in crystals and silica. It comes in many colors, most typically clear or white. Caesarstone quartz surfaces are made of up to 93% quartz, making it one of the world's most durable surfaces.

Good Housekeeping Seal

Caesarstone quartz is the only countertop manufacturer to hold the Good Housekeeping Seal.

Caesarstone earned the Good Housekeeping Seal through evaluation by our Research Testing Institute and was found to be a product that will deliver excellent results and performance. Earning the Seal by passing our engineering and consumer usage evaluations speaks volumes about the high regard Good Housekeeping holds for the Caesarstone product."

Sean Sullivan

Former Associate Publisher for Good Housekeeping

Additionally, Caesarstone quartz meets American Greenguard's exacting standards, is credited by the National Sanitation Foundation for laboratory, healthcare facility and food preparation safe surfaces and ranks highly with the United States Green Building Council.

The First Step on the Journey to Your Dream Home

Whether you're renovating your family's kitchen, creating a bathroom that feels like the perfect oasis or styling an entryway to warmly welcome your guests, your home should feel like a reflection of you. Begin your design journey and create your ideal home with the following guide.

6131 Bianco Drift

Traditional

Formal and elegant in design, this style has more ornate molding and edge detail, symmetry, rich colors and other characteristics of 18th and 19th century American and European design. Lighter in color, Bianco Drift pairs perfectly with the color of the cabinets and overall aesthetic, creating a space that is as warm and welcoming as it is timeless.

Eclectic

With distinct patterns, textures and colors, the eclectic style is all about individuality. Comprised of unlikely pairings and contrasting pieces, this style's daring design choices evoke admiration and curious intrigue. London Grey is made for such a space, with its eloquent light grey and soft charcoal veining that sweeps across the surface in a unique way.

Whittney Parkinson Designs | Sarah Shields Photography | 1141 Pure White

Glam

Exuding luxury, the glam style draws inspiration from sumptuous colors, rich fabrics and dramatic details. A style this confident requires a surface that will complement its lavishness. Pure White is an effortless fit for the style, possessing opulence and luminosity without a need to worry about chipping or staining.

4033 Rugged Concrete

Industrial

Concrete quartz countertops are an ideal choice for their flexibility, durability and jaw-dropping visual appeal. Pair Rugged Concrete with a rich color palette to transform a space from edgy and unpolished to warm and welcoming.

Farmhouse

The appeal of the farmhouse style is in the delicate details and charming comfort that make the space instantly feel like home. Exposed wood beams, country-chic textiles and sensible color palettes are just some of the key details that contribute to this style. The use of Raw Concrete against the rich navy cabinetry and white paneled wall creates a practical elegance that exudes from every nook and cranny of the space.

Minimalist

Defined by muted colors and minimal accessories, only the most essential pieces are incorporated into the minimalist design. This style leans toward design with intention and an appreciation for pieces that do not compete for attention. Calacatta Nuvo makes a lasting impression and enhances the interior with a touch of high-end, yet subtle indulgence.

Contemporary

The contemporary style boasts pure forms, clean lines, modern craftsmanship and impeccable thought to material and color. It is a sleek aesthetic punctuated with elements of drama and sophistication. The white and bright color palette and light wood cabinetry work together seamlessly to give this space a sophisticated feel that is only further enhanced by Statuario Maximus.

Mid-Century Modern

The mid-century modern style takes its inspiration from the middle of the 20th century to create a timeless space that prioritizes functionality. Characterized by sleek lines, geometric forms and thoughtful craftsmanship, it is rooted in minimalistic simplicity. The muted hue of Blizzard, with its clean white base and tiny grey specs, is right at home in such an organic setting, without appearing too stark.

Mood Boards and the Influence of Color

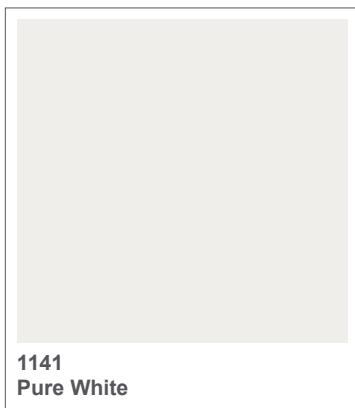

Color influences emotion. It can lighten your mood, improve your health, increase your concentration and help with productivity. Color is the easiest way to communicate your story and to infuse personality into your home's interior.

The use of color in interior design is re-emerging. Bold, beautiful tones paired with neutral bases are replacing bright white spaces. Black, grey and white kitchens are getting a luxurious upgrade.

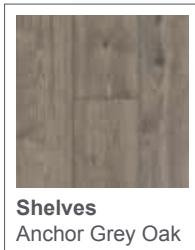

Caesarstone presents these color pairings and mood boards to help garner your creative expression without losing the timeless appeal of your interiors.

Out of the Blue

When designing a space with strong statement pieces like colored cabinetry or a heavily-patterned backsplash, the countertops should stay simple. Pure White plays the perfect supporting role to a bold design, while still keeping the space bright and airy.

Rooted in Tradition

The traditional style incorporates soft, neutral colors such as creams, taupes and greys to create a comfortable, homey feeling. It is a style open to personalization and with great variety, so it pairs perfectly with a quartz surface that does the same. Made up of neutral, coarse grained chips atop a white base, there's no better match than Nougat for the traditionally-inclined.

Drift into the Deep

Blue is a very soothing color so it makes sense to use it often in high-traffic areas such as kitchens. When used to create a focal point, it adds visual variance to the space, anchored with neutral Bianco Drift surfaces.

Embrace the Outdoors

A contemporary interpretation of natural stones, Moorland Fog features a rich, creamy base swirled with light and dark browns and greys. Pairing beautifully with ivories, there's no better way to bring the outdoors in. Put the veining on full display atop dark oak, red mahogany or hickory cabinetry.
